Safety Seminar Well Attended at Salem

At Salem Airport, a group of aviators gathered for a culinary experience in the dinner and a safety seminar in the banquet room. Breakfast, as always, was excellent and there were several tables occupied by people getting a hot meal before the start of the Safety Seminar that was put on by the airport.

The discussion began with CEOPA Safety Director presenting some information on weather and the effects on aircraft. It was then turned over to a group that trains in recovery training.

The group in attendance was in the area of 50 people or so. The presentation lasted a couple of hours and while most drove in, there were several GA aircraft that flew in. Light Sport and Ultralight Aircraft were not in attendance due to high winds in the forecast.

What Are You Guys Doing in Your Aircraft

This newsletter is a reflection of our group and the experiences they have while attending and participating in aviation events

I am always looking for people to send in articles about where they went and how they got there. Pictures are great, but we need the story. Please send me your stories.

John D. Having Problems with Fly-Out E-Mail

As many of you know, John has been sending out the e-mails through Yahoo that keep everyone informed about the events that are taking place around the area.

John just informed me that Yahoo has stopped sending out the e-mails and he is working to get things restored. He asks that people be aware of the issue and know he is working on the problem.

Please continue to send him any events that you know of and he will get them out when he can.

House for Sale Near Minerva Airport

There is a house for sale next to property that is adjacent to Minerva Airport. It is listed as a Hobby Farm and is on almost 34 acres. If anyone is looking for something close to a place to fly, this would be something to consider. Come to the meeting to hear more.

New Newsletter Editor Needed

Can you believe that I have been bringing you the monthly NCLF Lite Flyer newsletter since 2006??? That is 8 years. Lots have gone on in that time. Lots more happening yet to come.

I find that my time is becoming more and more scarce and I am looking for a replacement. To take over the publication.

Qualification:

- Computer
- Printer
- E-mail
- Two working fingers (Negotiable— One may be acceptable)

The newsletter is currently in Publisher 2000 format. I have it mail-merged to Excel. It can be built however the new Editor sees fit. To be able to put a copy out to the e-mail recipients, it has been dispersed as a PDF file. This is also the format that is on the website.

I still plan to run the Website, but I just don't have the time to write the articles. If you feel you can take on the position, contact me and I can send you the latest publisher file.
